CHECK AT ONCE YOUR SPRING PANSY NEEDS

Mr. Coldclimate: Right now is the time to check up on your Pansies. There is still time to plant indoors in flats and obtain plants for April and May sales. These may be shifted out in frames in February, and into the open as soon as the ground thaws. We quote a full line of seeds on the back cover. Seedlings offered inside this folder if transplanted into coldframes early will supply saleable stock much quicker. The transplanted stock offered, will be in full bloom by the time you can sell it.

Mr. Warmclimate: Seedling plants will give you best results now. In climates where frosts occur throughout the winter these may be brought into flower in about a month outdoors. They are perfectly hardy, being field grown and acclimated to temperatures of 20° and colder without protection. If large plants are wanted quick you will want the transplanted plants. You may also wish to plant some seeds yet too for later sale.

BE SURE YOU HAVE ENOUGH

SEEDLING PLANTS

These are all September sown, and grown in the open field. For sturdy, hardy plants this system produces a class of stock that cannot be excelled nor even equaled by any of the methods of growing plants under artificial protection. The story of the robust sturdiness, and heavy roots of this stock is definitely told by the 22lb to 25lb per 1000, average shipping weight as compared with much lighter plants usually sold as seedlings. Packing is by the most advanced method; 50 plants being wrapped in a bunch with the roots protected by damp moss and the special paper wrapper recently developed by us. Cases are of light wood, new material, and tailored to fit each shipment. No care is spared to assure safe delivery to your door, and not an excessive ounce of weight is used in packing safely.

TRANSPLANTED PLANTS

These are also field grown and extra quality plants. Many were in flower up to the zero weather experienced in early Dec., and it is sufficient recommendation of their robust hardiness that they came almost unharmed through this without even the protection of snow. With growing temperature these will soon come into full flower.
